Name: _____

AP Literature Unit 1
Socratic Seminar graphic organizer

Topic: The cruelty and/or kindness with which people treat one another often function as crucial motivations with vast individual and societal ramifications. Consider the various ways in which humans behave as both actors and recipients, perpetrators and victims, and contemplate the complexity of the human condition as it is revealed through the (often simultaneously) monstrous and magnanimous characters in your readings for this unit. What do the characters' dichotomous acts reveal about the themes of the varied works and about human society in general? Support your ideas with textual evidence from multiple texts (including intertextual connections) and clear analysis including literary devices.

Central Ideas:

Text	Textual Evidence (with chapter and/or page number)	Analysis & Support for Central Ideas	Device(s)

Text	Textual Evidence (with chapter and/or page number)	Analysis & Support for Central Ideas	Device(s)

Notes During Discussion	speaker	insightful and/or interesting comment or question (and text/evidence)

Text	Textual Evidence (with chapter and/or page number)	Analysis & Support for Central Ideas	Device(s)

Text	Textual Evidence (with chapter and/or page number)	Analysis & Support for Central Ideas	Device(s)